

DAILY

I am willing to do what I have not been willing to do in order to meet my goal.

People don't decide their future; they decide habits that determine their future.

What I do DAILY is deciding what I will become permanently.

Nothing will ever dominate my life unless it happens DAILY.

I can't change my life until I change something I am doing DAILY.

I can trace failure to something permitted to occur DAILY.

I can trace uncommon success to habits that I created DAILY.

Habits are strengthened or changed by people I permit to be close to me DAILY.

What I look at DAILY decides where I will go.

I move toward the dominant picture in my mind DAILY.

I can change a failure routine into a success routine DAILY.